Grange primary school shrewsbury ofsted report

age range to which the establishment can legally create regulations. The number of students the establishment can accommodate. This shows whether the student's family claimed the free-to-feed eligibility requirements reported in the annual spring school census. Parents can claim free meals if they receive qualified benefits. This shows students who are entitled to them, not students who have actually received free meals. Clicking on the logo below to see data dashboard principal Charlie Summers celebrate a 'good' inspection with students at Grange Primary School on York Road, Shrewsbury has made significant progress since investigators last visited and told school leaders they needed to improve. Lowell Williams, chairman of the board, praised the efforts of staff and principal Charlie Summers. We have seen significant improvements and thank all the staff for making it a great school for the children and parents we serve. This is a great team effort led by principal Charlie Summers, who has worked to establish a culture of high expectations for students and staff. A report by three investigators who visited the school in June said students behaved well in class and felt safe at school. It also noted that the focus is on improving the progress of students in improving the quality of their education. I'm very proud of my amazing kids and dedicated team. I am pleased that investigators have recognized the tireless effort, dedication, dedication and diligent professionalism that are clear throughout the school that you share to celebrate our success and are proud of our wonderful school like me. It's really a team effort of children, employees, parents, governors and boards. I know it is a privilege and a joy to be a head teacher at Grange Primary School and that I will go from strength to strength. I love this school and am determined to work for more success for my wonderful children. This cookie policy describes how eSchools uses cookies and similar technologies in our services. That's what these technologies are and why you use them, and your right to control them. What are cookies? Cookies are small data files that are placed on your computer or mobile device when you visit a website. Cookies are widely used by online service providers to make websites or services work or to work more efficiently and to provide reporting information. Cookies set by website owners or service providers (eSchools in this case) are called first-party cookies. Cookies set by parties other than the website owner are called third-party cookies. Third-party cookies allow you to provide third-party features or services on the websites or services you use (e.g., advertising, interactive content and analytics). The third party that set these third-party cookies may recognize both your computer when you visit that website or service and when you visit certain other websites or services. Why use cookies and other tracking technologies? We use first- and third-party cookies for a variety of reasons. Some cookies are required for technical reasons in order for our services to operate, which we call essential cookies. Other cookies allow us and the third parties we work with to track and target the interests of visitors to our Services, which we call advertising or analytical cookies. For example, the inclusion of YouTube and Vimeo videos added by individual schools requires that ad cookies be enabled to play successfully. For example, schools that choose to use Google Analytics to track visitor data must enable analytics cookies to do so. These third-party cookies are used to personalize the content and information we may send or display to you, to personalize your experience while interacting with our services, and to improve the functionality of the services we provide. Schools may also use cookies and similar tracking technologies in connection with their use of the Services so that they can track their interactions with visitors through the school's website.
